Basis of Claim:

The artwork was created by a Tub Works graphic designer, using Adobe Illustrator software, on a personal computer which used the Microsoft Windows operating system. The designer first created and photographed (using a Nikon Z9 digital camera), six distinct foam soap stacks, one for each color. He input each photo to Adobe Illustrator, digitally manipulating them for size and positioning. The designer then added the various icons used to identify each stack by color/scent, placing the icons over their respective stacks. He then created various text which he overlayed onto the ensemble, manipulating the size, color and font. Lastly, he added some graphics of bubbles of various sizes. He then saved the image as a Portable Document Format (pdf) top file. He also saved the file as a Joint Photographic Experts Group (jpeg of jpg) file, and as a Portable Network Graphic (png) file.
